Branding the BUILT ENVIRONMENT
Founded by Scott Cuyler and Mike Moore over a decade ago, Square Peg Design has created first and lasting impressions for hundreds of projects around the world. Square Peg is a multi-disciplinary group of designers, architects, brand managers, strategists and construction managers with a common focus on developing visual communications for the built environment.
WHAT WE DO

We design and develop that visual layer between the built environment and your audience. The layer of visual communications that brands, informs, directs, identifies and enhances one’s experience within any number of environments. It could be a city, a campus, a stadium, office or retail development. Whatever the project, the public’s perceptions are based on the experiences they encounter along the way. Is it welcoming. Where do I go? Where do I park? How do I get in or out? It’s that first positive impression that determines success.

This feature is located in the Fashion Atrium. It is a composition of five, 7m dia rings that are .5m high. The rings are individually supported by a computerized hoisting system to raise and lower the rings into a variety of positions. The rings are complimented by smaller LED screens at the perimeter of the atrium and a customized sound system.

In 2009, Square Peg Design was awarded the Merit Award from the Society of Environmental Graphic Design (SEGD) for this Ring Feature.
